NOVEMBER 1964

She was Margaret Cook Atkinson in 1918, her graduation year, when she wrote the words of Wesleyan's Alma Mater. Member of a distinguished family which sent four girls to Wesleyan (the others: Louise, Theodora, and Mary,) she has long been Mrs. Ralph Clark, living in LaGrange, Georgia, active in Sunday School work.

The college Glee Club had been organized in 1915 by Roy Billen. Girls came off the basketball court in middies and bloomers to be auditioned; after rehearsals they went on tour; lustily they sang, "If you're looking for a place to send your daughter, Mr. Man."

One morning in daily Chapel Mr. Billen announced a contest for an Alma Mater, an original poem to be written to a tune composed by a Wesleyan music professor, James R. Gillette (it fitted Burns' "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton").

Margaret, a guitarist that year in the Glee Club, had turned out a number of rhymes for class songs. Late of an afternoon she lay soaking in the bathtub up in the tower, humming Mr. Gillette's pretty tune. Words began to form in her mind . . . "Hail Wesleyan, thou emblem of all that is grand . . . the noblest, the greatest in all our fair land . . ." Her floating bar of soap melted . . . "thy daughters shall be . . . true, faithful and loyal, dear Wesleyan, to thee!"

Her prize-winning opus went on the Glee Club tour all over Georgia that year, with Margaret and her room-mate, Polly Pierce (later Corn) and the rest singing out the lines with fervor. It was officially adopted as the Alma Mater, to be enshrined in subsequent years in the heart of every Wesleyan student.

FRONT COVER

YOUR ALMA MATER tingles your spine and stirs your heart much as does your National Anthem. Here is a copy of your own school's song, which many have requested. Put it on the music rack of your piano, play it, sing it, teach it to your sons and daughters: "Hail Wesleyan, thou emblem of all that is grand!"

"HAIL WESLEYAN ! ...

Golden chimes rang out the Alma Mater as Wesleyan opened its 127th session on September 17, 1964.

Seniors, in black, joined the largest student body in the history of the college, 672 strong, in Porter Auditorium to sing, "Hail Wesleyan, thou emblem of all that is grand . . ."

We hail Wesleyan as this new year begins, a year, according to President W. Earl Strickland, which finds students better prepared academically than ever before. The 285 freshmen come from 19 states and five foreign countries. A thirteen percent increase in full time students has filled every room, including a wing in Porter once used as an infirmary, reports Dean Mary D. Lawter.

Applications for next year as compared to last are running almost double, says Allen Sanders, director of admissions. He urges prompt application, as increased retention of upper classes will leave fewer spaces.

NEW ART BUILDING

Improvement of academic facilities is headed by the newly completed art building, the first on the Rivoli campus. Located in a beautiful secluded area of the back campus over 11,000 square feet of floor space will be dedicated to teaching visual arts—drawing, painting, print-making, two and three-dimensional design, ceramics, sculpture, history of art and art education. In this rapidly growing area Stanley R. Caywood, of the University of Iowa, has been added to the faculty headed by Stuart C. Van Orden and including James M. Kelley and Robert R. Malone.

MODERNIZE TAYLOR

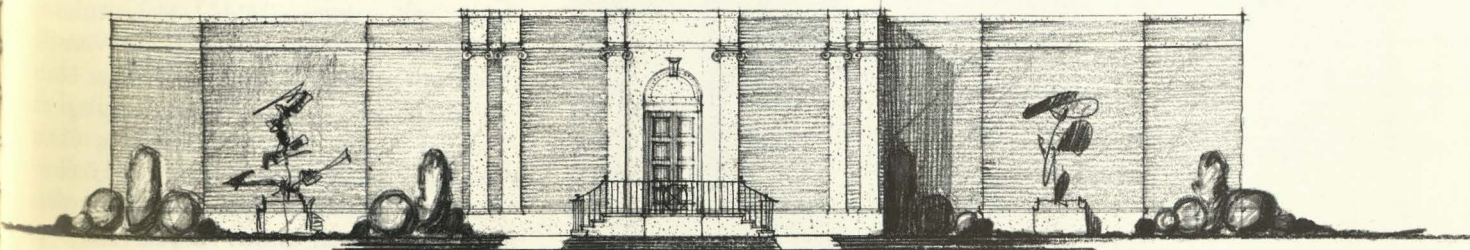

Taylor Science Hall, freed of its former art classes, is undergoing total renovation. Already completed is the first $30,000 contract of a contemplated $120,000 improvement. A grant of $60,000 from an Atlanta foundation, to be matched by Wesleyan, will help to raise science facilities to standards required for the world of today and tomorrow.

Among other improvements, students and faculty are enjoying four new tennis courts, with the four older ones resurfaced (cost $10,000). A budget of $15,000 will provide lectures and concerts.

TRUSTEES DEDICATE

The Board of Trustees, Reginald Trice, chairman, met on October 29. After a festive luncheon, ceremonies were held naming the Jennie Loyall Manget Dining Room and the Alleen Poer Hinton Student Lounge, both beautifully redecorated. Trustees, with close friends and family of Jennie and Alleen were invited. At the designation Trustees C. Baxter Jones and the Rev. J. Frederick Wilson paid tribute to the two alumnae being honored. Charley W. Farmer served as Trustee's chairman for redecorating the Manget Room.

The day before, Alumnae Board of Managers met, and in the afternoon a convocation in Porter Auditorium featured a talk by Dr. A. C. Aderhold, president of the University of Georgia. On October 29-30 the Wesleyan Drama Department presented its first play of the season, "The Young and Fair." Hail Wesleyan!

PROPOSED FACADE FOR NEW ART BUILDING.
SKETCHED BY W. ELLIOTT DUNWODY, JR.

THOU EMBLEM OF ALL THAT IS GRAND...

All that is grand in an alumna is represented in our new Alumnae Secretary, Susan Hargrave Magette, AB '38, of Washington, D.C. and Atlanta. Her emblem, besides the officer's insignia on her Navy hat, is her true-blue devotion to Wesleyan—and her blue eyes.

The gaze of the latter is level and direct, breaking into a merry twinkle as she makes friends with the Wesleyan family. A lieutenant commander in the Naval Reserve, her trim figure was in uniform for twelve years of active duty during wartime. Susan was stationed two years in Japan at the Navy supply base at Yokosuka, in the shadow of the great Buddha, and two and a half years in Europe; she has looked upon the midnight sun in Scandinavia and been blessed by the Pope in Rome at Christmas. She comes to Wesleyan from a U. S. Government position in Washington.

NO LAZY SUSAN

Born in North Carolina, Susan was directed to Wesleyan as a student by her Latin teacher in Atlanta, Miss Annabel Horn, '06. During her four years as an English major on the Rivoli campus she learned under Professors Garner, Daniel, Witman, Wolf, and worked in the bookstore with Miss Banks Armand. Graduated at Pierce Chapel, she went on to study banking in Atlanta, and finance and management at American and George Washington universities in D.C. For several years she was employed at First National, in Atlanta, and Riggs National Bank in Washington. A model of efficiency, but no robot, she is a member of the American Institute of Banking and the American Society of Women Accountants.

Formerly part of the Atlanta and Washington alumnae clubs, serving the latter in '63-64 as area contact representative, Susan has kept alive her love and loyalty for her Alma Mater.

"The nicest thing that ever happened to me is to come back to Wesleyan. Imagine me a member of the staff—I haven't drifted down to earth!"

Her blue eyes alight she smiles across the beautiful Annabel Horn desk recently vacated by Florence (Trimble) Jones, '20, after eight years of dedicated service.

When she represented Wesleyan at the annual meeting of the American Alumnae Council in July at Denver, Colo., Miss Magette was introduced to problems and goals shared all over the country. Two days with our college officials and staff at Callaway Gardens in September proved a great help and inspiration, while alumnae, young and older, have showered her with good wishes and offers of assistance.

HOW TO BE GOOD

"To be a good alumna, a credit to her Alma Mater", says Susan, "one must learn while still a student salient things about the school and about the Alumnae Association. One must learn what part alumnae play in the admissions program, the meaning and use of the Loyalty Fund, the effect of alumnae good will and support on the growth and on-going of the college. Then, upon graduation, there is no traumatic shock at transition from student to alumna, no adjustment. It is all normal and natural and grand."

With her exciting background Susan Magette has always kept her packing boxes ready and waiting to travel. Now, settled in her Lake Terrace apartment on Vineville Avenue, Macon, she has thrown her boxes away. She goes to Navy reserve meetings on Monday nights, to choir practice at Christ Episcopal Church, under Doris Jelks' direction, on Thursdays. Daytimes she presides over the Alumnae Office in Tate Hall.

"Come and see me", she invited. And you'll be glad you did.

THE NOBLEST, THE GREATEST IN ALL OUR FAIR LAND...

The Candler Memorial Library at Wesleyan has long been considered one of the finest libraries in the country for a college this size. Can we keep it so?

Our collection of books is outstanding, consisting of 63,000, with 2,000 added each year to meet growing needs. Three hundred current magazines and a dozen newspapers arrive regularly; we own a micro-film reader, audio-visual material (slides, film strips, records of Shakespeare, modern poets, etc.)

Important are the ADPi collection of art books (from primitive to modern and augmented by the gift of $1400 by the class of 1909 for rare art books); the McGregor collection of Americana, the Orville A. Park Georgiana, and the famed Georgia Room.

DOUBLE AND DOUBLE

Great, too, is student use of books, 53,360 this past year, almost double the national average per student.

Library facilities, splendidly housing 15,000 books in 1928, become increasingly inadequate as Wesleyan grows. Even with a superb staff, lack of space brings inefficiency and disorder. Expansion, long past schedule, is now in sight, with plans drawn for a 23,000 square foot addition. Doubling present space will allow more stack and study areas, individual carrels (study desks), all work area on the main floor, seminar rooms, a music library, a listening room, and air conditioning. A library architect will act as consultant.

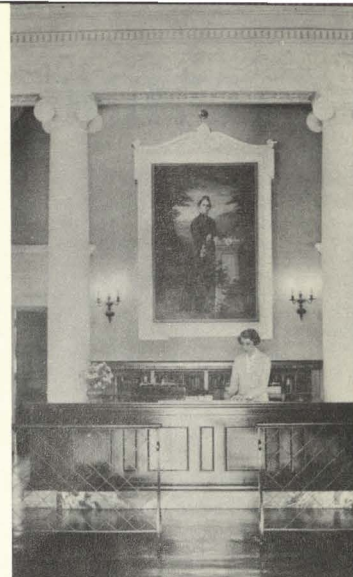

NAME A ROOM?

Over $140,000 has already been pledged toward the $500,000 needed for the project, according to banker Tom E. Greene, Jr., chairman of the Trustee's Development Committee. Alumnae are urged to make memorial gifts from $1,000 upward, for which bronze plaques will be placed in the library. Gifts of $50,000, $25,000, $10,000, and $5,000 will establish a room or a section to be named for a loved one.

The new tax law provides for a donor to take a tax deduction over a period of five years for his gift. Thus, one may give now and deduct a portion at a time, up to five years.

Existing Library Funds have long been named for Eva Gertude McDornald and Jessie Monroe Dickey, both of the class of '87. Atlanta alumnae gave the Florrie Cook White Art Library in 1942; moneys were donated from the Mary H. Washington Library Science Fund, from James H. Porter and William Banks, Mrs. J. W. McCook, the Carnegie Corporation. Two years ago the Kellogg Foundation gave a grant of $10,000 to be used over a three-year period.

Other friends, such as devoted Dr. Josephus W. W. Daniel, and alumnae have helped our library to grow. Now, all who love Wesleyan have a challenge and a chance to help this prime adjunct of education become nobler and greater, so that none in all our fair land will better serve the youth of tomorrow.

THINE IDEALS ARE HONORED...

Honoring the ideals learned from the mother of colleges becomes a pattern of life for Wesleyan's daughters. Singly and in groups they strive to project these values so that generations to come can know the strengthening ennobling influence of their college.

Alumnae clubs play an important part in promoting the aims and well-being of Wesleyan. Largest clubs, divided into groups, function in Atlanta and Macon, both of which have been active this fall. All clubs, large and small, enjoy the fun of getting together to talk about their Wesleyan days, to learn what's doing on campus today, to thrill at plans for the future.

If you have a club, even an informal one, please send news of it to the Alumnae Office. If you do not have a club, but know of half dozen alumnae in your vicinity, form one! Write the Office or Martha (Aiken) Pendergrast, '42, first vice president in charge of clubs, 3398 Briarcliff Rd., N.E., Atlanta, for suggestions and help.

"A" IS FOR ATLANTA

The beautiful Williamsburg home on Valley road of Bettijo Hogan (Mrs. Rodney Cook, BFA '48, president of the Atlanta Club, was the scene of two big events. A party for freshmen on August 17 honored forty-five new students at informal morning coffee. Sarah Curry (Mrs. Lloyd P. Jones), '48, and Marian Williams (Mrs. Robert Youngblood), '35, were co-chairmen.

Traditional Atlanta Day, again at the Cook home, featured a morning coffee on October 14, for alumnae and friends, an afternoon tea for prospective students and mothers, and evening dessert for alumnae. Several hundred Atlantans and neighbors spent a lovely day meeting with Dr. and Mrs. Strickland, Susan Magette, our new alumnae secretary; Elaine (Wood) Whitehurst, alumnae president; and Betty Jo (Hammock) Boyes, '48, Atlanta Field Representative.

General chairman of the day was Sarah (Curry) Jones. Publicity for the occasion was handled by Jane Mulkey, '42 (Mrs. Rufus Green).

Young Atlanta Club met October 11, in Decatur, with Dr. Strickland as speaker to 35 enthusiastic alumnae (since '19).

MACON ON THE MOVE

Big future project of the Macon Club is sponsorship of the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra children's concert. Groups I and II met this fall at the home of Trustee Frances (Stevens) Dessau, '08, and groups VI and VII at Anne (Lavender) Faulk's ('60). The Macon Club has assisted with Wesleyan's Continuing Education program, "Listening to Music". Nina Beth (Sheppard) Terrell, '58, is president.

At the luncheon meeting of the Columbus Club May 13, Margaret (Cantrell) Isaacs, '33, was elected president; Few (Rigbie) Mixon, '51, vice president; Alpha (Boyd) Maddox, '39, secretary-treasurer.

IN THE FIELD

Georgia Field Representative Charlotte Thomas gave a glowing report of the party held at the Presbyterian Church in Quincy, Fla., by Trustee Julia (Monroe) Woodward, '34, and Glenda Kingry, '65. High school juniors and seniors and their mothers were invited for hamburger supper. Linda Brinks, '63, graduate student at LSU, spoke in the interest of Wesleyan to prospective students. At Quincy's College Night program Walter E. Steinhaus, head of the music department, represented Wesleyan.

All fall a series of College Nights is being held in Georgia, Florida, and South Carolina, with our Field Representatives on active duty. It is hoped alumnae will watch for the college motorcade and will get in touch with the Wesleyan representative when she comes to town.

THY NAME ALWAYS BLESSED...

Thulia Elizabeth ("T. E.") Massey came to Wesleyan during the Civil War, when the old college on the hill was crowded with refugees. She wore long, wide-skirted dresses, studied by gaslight, listened to Sidney Lanier's sweet flute. T. E. received the A.B. degree in 1867, married W. H. Fitzpatrick, and sent their daughter, Inez, to Wesleyan.

Inez, one of the first contributors to Loyalty Fund, was graduated in 1883, married Leon Smith Fernald. In 1928 mother and daughter returned to campus for reunion with their classes. The next year, within a week, this precious pair was claimed by death.

This fall, T. E.'s great-grand daughter, Marsha Lynn Fernald, of Tarpon Springs, Florida, entered the freshman class at Wesleyan. Two others whose great-grandmothers were alumnae are Kay Roberta Connally, of Abilene, Texas, and Emily Suzan McNair, Moultrie, Ga.

THREE GENERATIONS

The current Freshman class has three three-generation girls: Florence Ellis North, Tampa, Fla. (Marian Thomas, '09; Florence Hanson, '45; plus two great aunts); Nancy Lee Lowe, LaFayette, Ala. (Bessie Jones, '09; Christine Lewis, '39); and Sally Duskin, West Point, Ga. (Genevieve Broome, '23; Frances Jones, '41, also a great aunt, Christine Broome, '16, Wesleyan Spanish teacher).

New addition in Wesleyan's field work is Shirley Wise, '63, of de Funiak Springs, Fla., whose territory is South Carolina. Others, besides Mmes. Boyes and Thomas are Arlene (Atkins) Finch, '56, and Doris Manning, '60, both in Florida.

AREAS ARE ACTIVE

First Vice President Emma (Stephens) Wilson, '42, of Washington, Ga., had a luncheon at her home on October 21, inviting alumnae from Athens, Augusta, and Elberton, Ga., and her own town, in an effort to activate those clubs. Honor guests were Miss Magette, and Mrs. Whitehurst.

Jean (Malone) Seegmueller, Albany, had an area meeting in the spring.

THEIR MOTHERS CAME

New girls whose mothers were at the Oldest and Best include Helen Lovein Jackson (Helen Lovein, '41), Columbus, Ga.; Anne Louise Almand (Bernice Bassett, '29), Norwalk, Conn.; Mary Abbott Waite (Marynell Sampley, '40 and Aunt Ethelene), St. Simons, Ga.; Marian Elizabeth Rogero (Marian Watson, '45), St. Augustine, Fla.; Anne Grey Stephenson (Jacqueline Chambers, '39), Macon; Martha Ward Pafford (Sarah Jones, '34 and aunt, Helen Pafford), Atlanta; Patricia Lee Millirons (Martha Woolbright, '42, and aunt Wilma), Knoxville, Tenn.; Nancy Groover (Jane Martin, '39), Decatur, Ga.; Mary Knox, (Ruth Hall, '40, and five aunts!), Thomson, Ga.

To group a la Gilbert and Sullivan, sisters numbered thirteen, cousins seventeen, and aunts sixteen. And then there are great aunts claimed by Frances Lash Lawton, Soperton; Alva Marshall, Macon, and Ellen Walker, Lakeland. Kathy Cargill is proud that her great aunt, Ann Cargill '85, (Mrs. Ed F. Cook) of Macon, is probably Wesleyan's oldest living graduate.

In the records of Wesleyan, from the beginning, the names of her students become blest and immortal. A member of the current Golden Heart class, Dean Holt, of Thomasville, Ga., daughter of Winnett Turner, '41, is a direct descendant of the first president of Wesleyan, Bishop George F. Pierce.

A FOUNTAIN OF KNOWLEDGE...

BITTNER

HARRIS

Rising to new heights and on several levels, education gets major emphasis, as always, on the Wesleyan campus.

Sixty-seven carefully culled men and women comprise a faculty and staff of highest quality. A close relationship between teachers and students is effected through small classes, directed independent studies and personal conferences, says Dean Joseph B. James.

Chairmanship of the Department of English has been accepted by Dr. William Robert Bittner, BA, Pennsylvania State College; MA, PhD, University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Bittner, professor of English here and abroad (Free University of Berlin, Fullbright professor to France), is also an author; his books are "Poe: A Biography" and "Novels of Waldo French." He contributes also to Atlantic Monthly, Saturday Review, Show, The Nation, The New Republic, The Georgia Re-

PLAN "LISTENING TO MUSIC" COURSE: PEGGY CATCHINGS, STANDING, MRS. JELKS, FRANCES VAN HORNE

LISTENING TO MUSIC

Spurred by the success of Dr. Gin's Shakespeare courses, Wesleyan for the second year offers a program of continuing education.

Eight lectures by Doris Onderdonk Jelks on music appreciation opened Monday evening, October 5, in the Recital Hall, each repeated on Tuesday mornings.

The alumnae committee assisting with the "Listening to Music" series consists of Peggy (Smith) Catchings, chairman; Virginia (McClellan) McCowen, Elizabeth (Conner) Tucker, Frances (Bruce) Van Horn, Susan (Thigpen) McDuffy, Edwina (Hall) Beall, Mary (Parrish) Sanders, Edna (Richards) Sams, Susan Magette, Freda (Kaplan) Nadler.

TWO ARE NEW

For many years professor of organ and piano, Mrs. Jelks retired last year with an honorary Doctor of Music degree. A new instructor in music, Raymond Edwin Harris, is teaching organ and the general fine arts course for liberal arts students which last year was given by Linda Lane, on leave of absence to study.

Mr. Harris, a native of Salem, N. J., holds the BM degree from Westminster Choir College, and the MM from Yale. At the University of Copenhagen he received the Woods Candler Award and a Fullbright grant. He has appeared in many recitals in New England and Europe. Naegli von Bergen teaches piano in Miss Lane's place.

SUMMER HONORS PROGRAM

"The Governor's Honors Program, which for eight weeks during June and July brought to the campus the top 400 rising juniors and seniors in the state, identified Wesleyan with one of the most outstanding attempts Georgia has made with quality education."

So spoke Wesleyan's President Strickland, at the close of the non-credit program wherein boys and girls joined in extensive, creative work. "Wesleyan was selected," he said, "because the State Department of Education, which like our traditions and standards, found our facilities as a unit represented the best available. We are happy they plan to return next summer."

Assisting with the comprehensive physical program was Wesleyanne Mindy Bhullar, Phys Ed major from Nairobi, Kenya.

THE OLDEST AND BEST...

The oldest and best parts of Wesleyan are its spirit, its accomplishments and its goals, ever constant, so integral a part in building for its future. Alumnae set great store, also, by its physical treasures, its antique furnishings from Old Wesleyan, its paintings and silver, all relics of much value, both sentimental and monetary, which have been presented to the college by loving alumnae and friends.

Old Wesleyan buildings have passed into history (the new Federal Post Office on College Hill is to be dedicated November 18). But pictures and chairs and chests and various objects of art, once the glory of the time-hallowed buildings, are now adding interest and beauty to the Rivoli plant. In the past year, under the supervision of Alleen (Poer) Hinton, considerable progress has been made in placing these effects. The process continues apace with each day finding lovely things taken out of storage, refurbished, and placed in suitable spots.

CADE AND CARO

Some of the elegant gold furniture from the Gold Parlor in old Comer Building has been reupholstered and now ornaments the Faculty lounge (Ladies' Parlor) in Porter Hall. Across the way, in the Gentlemen's Parlor, a redecorating job has been done using various old pieces, and featuring a charming portrait of Caro Eastman Ogden, of Eastman, Ga., painted by her daughter, the late Helena Eastman Ogden Campbell, '18 of Tuckahoe, New York.

This painting, another oil, and two charcoal sketches, all by our illustrious alumna, and donated by her daughter, Miss Mary E. Campbell, of New York, are the latest additions to the Campbell Art collection. These hundred works of her own and artist friends, who contributed at her urging, are much admired and appreciated.

The student lounge in the Porter Building, this month officially named for Alleen, now houses the Cade collection, given to the Conservatory by the wife of a Washington, Ga., dentist. Inlaid cabinets and other fine furniture, pictures (including one by Rosa Bonheur), and other objets d'art were accumulated by Dr. Cade when he practiced in Alsace-Lorraine. His portrait and memorial plaque hang in the Hinton room.

TO LIST TREASURES

The hall in Tate has for some time been a gallery of portraits of former presidents and other men of note, including Harry Stillwell Edwards. (Mr. Edwards' Kingfisher Cabin has been presented by the college to the Macon Youth Museum). Mme. Chiang's portrait and her embroidered panels of the four seasons now ornament the president's office.

Leo Huckabee is in charge of placing memorial tablets which once hung in Pierce Chapel. The stone front steps of that building are stacked on the back campus near the lake, awaiting placement. The college, with Mrs. Hinton's help, is preparing a pamphlet listing and describing Wesleyan's treasures. Many alumnae thrill at the mementoes they secured from the old buildings, such as shutters, bentwood chairs, and bricks.

SORORITY ROOMS

At the Old Cannonball House, on Mulberry Street, Macon, preserved as chapter house and museum of the Sidney Lanier chapter, UDC, the two sorority rooms, ADPi and Phi Mu, formerly at Old Wesleyan, have been installed. Another room (open weekdays, 10:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.) will contain the bedroom furniture of Mrs. James M. Bass, with which her granddaughter, Octavia (Burden) Stewart, had furnished the guest room at Old Wesleyan.

A STAR IN THE DARK IS THY GLORIOUS PAST...

The golden stars of loyalty and support have kept Wesleyan's path lighted throughout the years of her life. This past year has been particularly glorious, with alumnae-giving soaring to new heights. Wesleyan is grateful.

Loyalty Fund contributions (see Honor Roll on gold pages) for 1963-64 have been directed toward increase of teacher salaries, and in the year ahead will so continue. "Apples for the teachers" are golden apples, attracting and holding a superior faculty, the basis of a superior college.

MONOTONY, MONOTONY

Loyalty Fund appeals may get monotonous; they are simply reminders.

"We could get away from continuous Loyalty Fund appeals", thinks Susan Magette, new alumnae secretary, "if we can keep alumnae aware of what's going on at Wesleyan. Then, proud and thankful for all it has meant to them, they will want to have a part in its future. Contributions should come voluntarily, as a thank-you for all the college has meant to them. When an alumna invests her money in the college she enjoys the rights and privileges of a stockholder."

IN LOVING MEMORY

Other alumnae giving, differentiated from Loyalty Fund, can be assigned by the donor to such purposes as scholarships, endowment, library expansion, or establishing a chair (one alumna recently gave $125,000 toward a chair).

Some gifts come as memorials, such as those this past year to remember:

Dr. Carl Anderson, Mrs. Alice Burch Barnum, Mrs. Erwin Pope Branch, Tommie Louise Turner Craft, Mabelle Jones Dewey, Annie Lin Foster, Caroline Hudson, Louise Montford Kilpatrick, Daisy White Lumpkin, Helen Pendleton McClure, Mrs. Morcock, David Otwell, Olivia Montford Pope, Mary Reeves, Rosetta Rivers, Annie Laurence Riley Sawyer, Mrs. Sewell, Charles Thwaite, Jr., J. W. Timmerman.

Gifts were added to Endowed Scholarships and other established funds: Dixie Beggs Scholarship, Emma Drew Clay Scholarship, Jessie M. Dickey Library Fund, Esther Kim Herr Scholarship, Margaret McEvoy Scholarship, Weeta Watts Mathews Scholarship, Mildred McCrory Mitchell Scholarship, Kathy Rogers Scholarship.

Gifts were also given in honor of Mrs. Ed. F. Cook and Dr. W. G. Gignilliat, Jr.

FIRMS MATCH GIFTS

Our nation needs higher education for survival in the world of today. Two well-known explosions in our society, in population and in knowledge, are putting strains on educational institutions. State institutions have almost unlimited funds for their operation. The small, intimate private college, dedicated to quality education, must depend on alumnae and friends.

Many business firms make contributions to educational institutions, matching the gifts which employees or their wives make to their own Alma Maters. Such a company is the J. M. Huber Corporation, of Huber, Ga., where James M. Whitehurst, husband of our alumnae president, is employed. Alumnae are asked to encourage such matching gifts.

If man can create a Tel-star in God's firmament, surely dedicated Wesleyan women can shoot a shower of golden stars to light the way ahead for their beloved college.

FOREVER AND EVER THY GLORY SHALL LAST...

"Wesleyan is in my Will".

Every day the cards come in, from alumnae in Pennsylvania and Virginia, from Florida and Louisiana. Lots and lots of alumnae in Georgia are writing to the college Development Office, "Wesleyan is in my Will."

These cards are in response to a brochure bearing a picture of the first diploma and entitled "Your Legacy", which was mailed to all alumnae in July. Some former students asked for help in planning their estates, so that their children and grandchildren might be well-remembered even while their college received the benefits of tax discounts available through advice. Our Development Officer, Weyman Huckabee, is arranging to assist the lawyers of these alumnae in setting up their estates to include their Alma Mater.

LIVE, BUT LEARN

A seminar for women on Estate Planning is to be held soon. Of special interest to widows as well as to married and single women who want to plan for their families' financial protection and also a gift to education, this course will touch on bequests, trusts, marital deductions, capital gains, tax economies, property protection, wills, and such.

A booklet on how a man or woman can improve family security while at the same time giving to the college is available on request. Write: Development Officer, Wesleyan College, Macon, Ga., and your copy of "Financial Protection and Your Gift to Education" will be sent free of charge. And if you have not sent in your card indicating that Wesleyan is already in your will or that you want assistance in putting her there, please do so at once, urges Jennie Loyall Manget, chairman of the alumnae Bequest Committee, herself a generous benefactor of Wesleyan.

"Foundations are helping increasingly, but it is the loyal alumnae and friends of Wesleyan who will make her glory redound forever and ever."

LET US HEAR!

Many alumnae sent Loyalty Fund contributions with their returned cards, also news of themselves.

Birt (Thomas) Park, class of 1891 wrote from Phoenix, Ariz.: "Girls, I have done some living in 91 years. I was born in Georgia: I loved my college days. I write with my left hand because my right side is paralyzed. Mr. Huckabee was my delightful guest on July 8. His wife is a lovely person. I enjoyed the visit." This note accompanied Mrs. Park's Loyalty Fund gift.

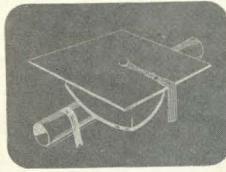

Mary (McAndrew) Thompson, class of 1901, widowed many years, wrote: "Have always been proud of having graduated from a college my grandmother attended, and my good wishes shall always be with it."

Mary Paul (Smith) Smith, '50, Kingsport, Tenn.: "You have prodded me so faithfully for so long that at last I'm taking the time to send a small token of my appreciation to Wesleyan. My husband is a physician in general practice and we have two boys and two girls. I would enjoy news of my Conservatory classmates."

Marian L. (Cook) Murphy, '18, Rockville Centre, N. Y.: "I have loved and remembered Wesleyan thru the years and intend to keep on doing so. How can 'part of our lives' ever be forgotten? My Loyalty Fund Gift will be forthcoming." (Her son and daughter, both married, live in Highland Park, Ill., and there are three grandchildren. Daughter Millicent Lee, working on her doctorate at U. of Colorado, is a kindergarten teacher.)

From Atlanta Annie (Dickey) Jones, '13: "I have already sent a small check for the Alumnae Fund. This one is in memory of my mother, Jessie Munroe Dickey" (She and her Henry enjoyed summer visits from daughters and nine grandchildren).

From LaBelle, Fla., Lois E. (Burgay) Gaunt, '20, writes of her alumna daughter, Betty, whose husband Herbert Bryan (PhD in Vegetable Crops, Cornell) is with the Experimental Station in Quincy, Fla., and their little son, James; also son James Gaunt, Jr., a dentist in Cleviston, Ga. "I am sending a check to the Loyalty Fund, which I am so happy to do. All good wishes and love to a wonderful and much loved college."

UPHOLDING THINE IDEALS...

All across the United States, in nine cities, Wesleyan women had the opportunity this past summer to refresh their memories of the past and to learn with pride about the present and future of the college.

On a 7,000 mile motor trip to Los Angeles, where he attended the annual conference of the American College Public Relations Association, Weyman C. Huckabee, vice president of Wesleyan, and his wife met with numerous alumnae.

"We were delighted with these fine representatives of the college," said Mr. Huckabee. "They are leaders in their churches and communities, as well as excellent homemakers. Wesleyan has a right to take pride in them. We were thrilled, too, with the interest they showed in Wesleyan. Some drove as much as forty miles to attend.

GIRLS ARE GRAND

"Alumnae arranged contacts, in some cases an informal gathering, in others dinner, luncheon, or a tea; in Phoenix I met our two alumnae in office and home. The Dallas and Los Angeles groups were the largest. I do thank our charming hostesses and all who came to be with us."

First hostess was Martha (Rodgers) Hudson, '42, in New Orleans, who entertained at lunch at her home. Two of those present were classmates, but until that day did not know that the other lived in New Orleans.

In Shreveport, La., Maude Whaley Williamson Garner, '45, and her husband, district manager for Southern Bell, entertained at lunch at the Petroleum Club.

TEXAS IS TERRIFIC

"Our next stop was Dallas where we had one of the finest alumnae meetings I have ever attended. It was arranged by Mrs. O. K. McElheny, nee Katherine Walker of Macon, AB 1926, and held in her home from 4 to 6:30. Eleanor (Ogburn) Kilgore, '54, now a Nieman-Marcus model, assisted. The refreshments were brought by the group.

"There are thirteen alumnae now in Dallas and nine were present. Only four knew each other from school; two lived a block apart and had never met. Two have young daughters interested in attending Wesleyan. They were all pleased with the progress Wesleyan is making and promised to meet and see what they can do to help."

MINTERS AND MOSELEY

Sunday evening the Huckabees drove to Sherman, Tex., to spend the night with friends of their own college days, John and Elizabeth Minter. The latter is Dr. Fred Manget's daughter and attended Wesleyan in '28-29. Her husband, pastor of the Grand Avenue Presbyterian Church, was to take charge of a new church in Houston in September.

"The next morning I called on Dr. Moseley, president of Austin College, a very fine small Presbyterian college which recently received $1,700,000 as a matching gift from the Ford Foundation. Dr. Moseley is trying to develop a new approach to education, setting as his goal training young people to live as it is expected the world will be in the year 2000. This program was started five years ago and is to be rounded out in another two or three, as far as buildings, curriculum, and hands are concerned. The trustees of Austin have been a vital part of this study and planning, as well as the faculty and administrative staff."

In Albuquerque a dinner was given in the home of Karen (Widdowson) Hunt, '60. Other hostesses were Birt (Thomas) Park, '51, in Phoenix; Margaret (Harris) Freeman, '14, Beverly Hills; Mary (Gaissert) Jackson, '55, Portuguese Bend, Calif.; Jeanne (Hollingsworth) Treece, '50, Denver; Allene (Hall) Pippin, '50, Oklahoma City; Phyllis (Clough) Davis, '55, and Jan Ricketson, '53, both in Nashville.

In Tulsa the Huckabees spent three hours with Vera (Clinton) McBirney, 1897, who is not only interested in Wesleyan but in collecting salt-and-pepper shakers. She has 2847 sets, gifts from all over the world.

WE ARE GRATEFUL

"It was a memorable trip in every way", concluded our Development Officer. "We are very grateful for alumnae interest and loyalty. Morale is high at Wesleyan in both faculty and student body; I found it high in alumnae, too, as they learn of our bright prospects. We look forward to alumnae support as new demands on higher education present new needs at Wesleyan. One speaker at the California meeting said: 'Tax supported colleges are giving the independent college fits . . . it is a matter of the survival of the fittest.'"

"Our alumnae are joining with trustees and other friends to help us meet the competition of tax-supported colleges, so that together we might uphold the fine ideals and standards of excellence of the Oldest and Best."

IN DENVER WITH JEANNE HOLLINGSWORTH TREECE, '50 AND CATHY SETTLE, '59.

THY DAUGHTERS SHALL BE TRUE, FAITHFUL, AND LOYAL ...

No tribute to Florence Trimble Jones could more adequately express her love and loyalty to Wesleyan than this article written by herself at the request of your Editor. As she treasures Wesleyan, so Wesleyan treasures her. She is a gracious lady whose service and spirit shall never be forgotten.

In his annual report to the Trustees President Strickland expresses the "genuine gratitude of the College Administration and of all the alumnae for Mrs. Jones' work . . . "Always a loyal alumna of the college, Mrs. Jones brought to the office a dedication and a personal quality of graciousness that contributed enormously to the advancement of the Association during her years of service". Florence served as president of the Association, 1949-52.

MY ALMA MATER 1956-1964

Serving as the Executive Secretary of the Alumnae Association for eight years brings me the privilege of evaluating some of the highlights, or milestones in the life of our college during that period. It goes without saying we had ups and downs along the way.

One important and stabilizing decision the alumnae sought for a long while was accomplished in 1958. The Trustees took a firm stand to have Wesleyan remain a woman's college, and ended the trend we were facing toward co-education. Many alumnae recognize the fact there is a definite need in the education world for the woman's college. Certainly, the first college chartered to grant degrees to women should remain in her pioneered field of distinction.

Wesleyan celebrated the centennial of the Alumnae Association in 1959. There was a concerted effort by the alumnae to spotlight the value of Wesleyan and her far-reaching influence in the community, the state and the world. "The Lasting Glory," a beautiful pageant written by an alumna, and presented by many alumnae and friends, culminated the year's work. This event proved to be very worthwhile in public relations by revealing the true spirit of the oldest and best.

CHANGE

The change in early 1960 of the top administrator of the college proved satisfactory in every respect. Work in all departments was uninterrupted and progress came gradually and naturally under the leadership of the new president.

The Trustees in 1962 established the new office of Vice President in Charge of Development. This was a very important step. The private college in this era of tax supported institutions must, to exist, prove to the business world, to foundations, and very definitely to alumnae and friends the absolute necessity of financial support. This new office is striving to enlarge the bequest program begun by the first Alumnae Director years ago, to inform friends of tax benefits by planned gifts to the college, to enlist interest from parents of present students and to encourage all alumnae to support Wesleyan with their resources - financial and spiritual.

STRUGGLE

Forgive me, but I cannot fail to mention the dominant struggle of these years - - our one great disappointment and failure. The alumnae with the help of a few friends worked for years to find some means of retaining and restoring the original buildings of Old Wesleyan. After seeking interest from every source and pursuing every lead - - historical societies, foundations, city, state government as well as U.S.A. agencies, from the early 1950's to the final date 1962 - - the Board of Managers concluded that ONLY the State of Georgia or the U. S. Government with vast resources could save the buildings. What a catastrophe! The State officials chose to release MILLIONS to the mountain of stone, immovable forever - - instead of to the historic buildings that have now vanished. Bitterness followed, hearts were saddened and dreams shattered. But after all, Wesleyan College and what it stands for with the excellent student body of nearly seven hundred deserves our undivided loyalty.

PROGRESS

The sky line changed on College Hill—and so the skyline at Rivoli is changing—as well as the floor plans, too. Alumnae keep hoping that the next shadow on the beautiful campus will be from the new addition to the library. And then, maybe an alumnae house someday!

In 1963 an alumna, a professional writer, was appointed Editor of the WESLEYAN ALUMNAE. This was a happy day in the Alumnae Office. It divided the load of work and released the Executive Secretary for more extensive personal contacts and promotional projects. Following this appointment a new Executive Secretary was named in 1964.

Progress, progress everywhere! Believe me, Wesleyan Alumnae, when I tell you—you have every reason to be proud of your Alma Mater.

There are three people now enjoying retirement, Anne S. Johnstone, Elizabeth M. Dixon and I, Florence T. Jones who will be supporting Wesleyan, the new Alumnae Director, and the new officers in every way possible. We are grateful for the rewarding years we were privileged to serve with the administration, the faculty, the staff and the loyal alumnae. We will forever treasure these friendships.

The three of us now promise never, never to lose our capacity for enthusiasm for Wesleyan and her alumnae!

—FLORENCE (TRIMBLE) JONES

DEAR WESLEYAN, TO THEE."

Dear Wesleyan, we pledge to thee . . . a keen appreciation of thy glorious past, an active interest in thy present activities, and a firm faith in thy promising future. We pledge the loyalty of loving daughters, remembering that we are living monuments to the "Wesleyan Spirit" and remembering, too, that we could perform no greater favor for an outstanding young acquaintance than to urge her consideration of Wesleyan as her college choice. We further pledge that we will seek to attain the goals of our Alumnae Association; keeping alive the friendships of our youth, continuing the pursuit of knowledge throughout our lives, and supporting our college in every way possible.

ELAINE (WOOD) WHITEHURST, '53
Alumnae President

WE ARE WORKING

The Student Interest committee of the Alumnae Association is sponsoring entertainment of seniors, individually, for dinner in private alumnae homes in Macon. Jacqueline (Davis) Richardson, '60, is chairman.

Another National project, Career Day on campus, November 2, was also under the aegis of this committee. Alumnae Career Women speaking to the student body: Carrie Lou Allgood, Washington, D. C. (civil service, government); Kathleen Mackay, Atlanta (medical illustration); Elaine (Wood) Whitehurst, Macon (homemaking, "Mrs. Georgia"); Norma (Mullings) Hunt, Macon (speech therapy); Blythe McKay, Macon (journalism).

PARENTS ARE PARTNERS

Wesleyan's ideals and aspirations are being furthered not only by alumnae but by parents of students, as well. Parents of Wesleyan, of which B. G. Smith, of Tampa, is president, had a busy few days at the opening of the school year. Orientation for parents was held that Sunday evening, with 450 parents being oriented by Dr. Strickland, Deans Lawter and James, and Prof. Bernard Murdock, of the psychology department. The Stricklands had open house that afternoon. Parents Executive Council met Tuesday.

"Working together alumnae and parents can recruit and maintain interest among students, can be a tremendous potential for help to Wesleyan," said Mr. Smith. A new student roster and a movie about the college are recent Parents' projects. Parents' week-end is set for March 13, 1965.
